Growth Operations Intern

Internship • US Market Growth

All roles are remote.

Causally is an AI-native studio. We build our own apps on the AI-assistant paradigm, and help companies rebuild key workflows around it.

What you will own

- Run growth experiments for SeEat in the US: work with the founding team around the current growth goals, test acquisition channels quickly, and use data to decide whether to scale, adjust, or stop.
- Work with creators: find the right creators on TikTok and Instagram, invite them to collaborate by email, and follow up on posting schedules and results.
- Build partnerships: reach out to international student groups at US universities, such as Chinese and Japanese student associations, and to local restaurants, and see each conversation through to an agreement.
- Support the founding team internally: prepare company documents, handle grant applications, and organize basic HR paperwork.

What we look for

- Current undergraduate or graduate student, any major, able to commit to a steady internship schedule.
- Strong written English: you write clear, natural emails and messages on your own.
- Careful and dependable: when several things are in motion, your information is accurate, your progress is recorded, and nothing handed to you goes unanswered.
- Comfortable reaching out to strangers; when you hear no, or nothing at all, you try another way.
- Good internet instincts: you know the content and trends of the platforms you use, and you can learn the rest on the job.

Good to have

- Confident on calls with creators and partners.
- Active on Instagram, TikTok, YouTube, or Reddit.
- Experience with club outreach, sponsorships, business development, or sales.
- Comfortable with tools like Canva and CapCut, so you can make your own graphics or short product and how-to videos for outreach.
- In the habit of using AI tools to work faster.

Include with your application

- Your résumé.
- A partnership email: write to Harvard's Chinese Students and Scholars Association (CSSA) proposing to promote SeEat together (150 words or fewer).
- If you have club outreach, business development, or social account experience, add a short note or links.
